

Documentation Guideline

The OTBNZ is required to verify your identity, qualifications and any other documentation provided as a part of the registration process. Wherever possible this is completed using an online process, however some applicants are required to supply original or certified printed documentation for verification.

Printed documentation can be provided to the OTBNZ at the following address:

Courier address: Occupational Therapy Board of New Zealand Level 5 22-28 Willeston Street Wellington 6011 New Zealand	Postal address: Occupational Therapy Board of New Zealand PO Box 9644 Marion Square Wellington 6141 New Zealand

Online verification

The OTBNZ utilises online tools for verification wherever possible. This includes registration verification, criminal conviction checks, English language test results and qualification checks. Where a document may be independently verified online the applicant may submit a digital copy of the document. The source for verification must be clearly visible on the document.

Overseas Qualified applicants

Overseas qualified applicants must provide original or certified printed copies of documentation by post or courier to the OTBNZ. This includes:

- Identification documents (including proof of any name changes)
- Certificate/s of good standing
- Occupational Therapy Qualification Certificate/s (where online verification is not available)
- Academic Transcript/s
- Academic Syllabus/ Detailed course description

Applicants may be offered the opportunity to apply for Primary Source Verification in lieu of providing hard copy documentation. The cost of this service is to be met by the applicant.

Other applicants

New graduate, TTMRA and Restoration applicants are not required to routinely provide printed copies to the OTBNZ however they must be prepared to provide hard copy documentation that meets the documentation standards when requested by the OTBNZ.

Documentation certification process

The OTBNZ understands that many of the documents required for application are important documents and thus will accept appropriately certified copies. Original and copied documents will need to be presented to an official who is authorised by law to certify documents such as a solicitor or justice of the peace.

How to certify documents for the OTBNZ

A certifying official may be a Justice of the Peace, Commissioner for Oaths, Solicitor or Notary Public, and must comply with all the standards below.

The OTBNZ cannot accept documents that are not certified according to the standards and this may result in a delay to your application.

The certifying official must:

- Sight the original document and its copy
- Sign the copy on the front of the page
- Print his/her name under the signature
- State his/her position or designation
- Endorse the copy with his/her official seal (where applicable)
- Provide his/her contact information to enable the OTBNZ to seek verification
- Ensure that the certified copy bears the statement: "Certified true copy of original document sighted" or "Certified original sighted – and that this is a photocopy of that original".

Please submit the hard copy of your certified document to the OTBNZ at the above address – we cannot accept a document which is faxed or emailed, or a photocopy of a certified document.

Return of original documents

The OTBNZ will take all reasonable care of original documents supplied, in accordance with the privacy policy. However, OTBNZ takes no responsibility for the loss or damage of documents in the mail or otherwise.

If the practitioner requires the return of original documentation, they must:

- state this clearly on the initial application
- Pay for the return of documents using a payment form.

Hard copy documents are routinely date stamped and holes punched for filing, unless otherwise requested at the time of provision.
